

HEARTSTONE JOURNEY

LIVE COURAGEOUSLY FROM YOUR HEART!

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Concord, New Hampshire, August 19, 2011— “Heartstone: A Journey out of the midnight of my soul”. If you have experienced the contact sport called “life” in any way then this book is for you. Life is not a snapshot, so why do we live it that way? Live courageously from your heart!

Come and take a journey with Tim through the pages of his personal failure, defeat, lost expectations, and his final devastation. Heartstone is a story about a people who faced the giants that we all face, and the keys God gave them (and has given each of us) to deal with those giants and turn theirs and our broken solitude into a field of dreams.

The truth of God’s word is that He has already written the story of your life. It is time for you to read that story and find your road home. God’s truth is that He has a plan for you that is good and not for evil —A plan where you win in the end. Let Heartstone be the beginning of your journey home. This time the happy ending will be your own.

God wants you to have a beautiful ending!

About Tim Young

Tim Young is a father, author, teacher, and speaker, whose life has become an example of God’s incredible depths of Grace. He is a contributing writer for various blogs and has a vision to impact all who have lost their balance on the beams of prosperity, power, and position. He knows the intoxication of self-indulgence and has lived under its power and control. Now free from the bondage of this addiction, he offer solutions to many of life’s toughest questions as he weaves through the tapestry of life through the stories he had to live to teach.

He currently leads the information technology team at a Vermont based consulting firm that creatively applies state-of-the-art modeling and analytics to strategy and planning issues. He has served on a team with Reach4Hope, a faith-based non-profit organization that reaches out to the homeless and needy in Concord, NH with a focus on meeting the physical and spiritual needs of those on the street.

He has also worked in the capacity of VP of Information Technology for a global provider of employer-sponsored child care, early education, and work/life solutions as well as other technology executive positions. He has served as council member for the CIO Executive Council, on the board for Nashua Children’s Learning Center and on a Work and Witness team to Panama. He has been quoted in CIO, Computer World, Information Security & CRN magazines and has published works on Servant Leadership, IT Innovation, and Vendor Relationships.
